

Question 1: Which five genres have the longest average track lengths?

I wanted to know, out of curiosity, which five genres had the longest average track lengths. You can see that the longest one is the Sci Fi & Fantasy genre at 2,911,783 milliseconds, or about 49 minutes long.

The fifth highest, Comedy, is just over half of the Sci Fi & Fantasy average track length at 1,585,263 milliseconds, or about 26 minutes long.

Question 2: Which country spent the most money on Electronica/Dance tracks?

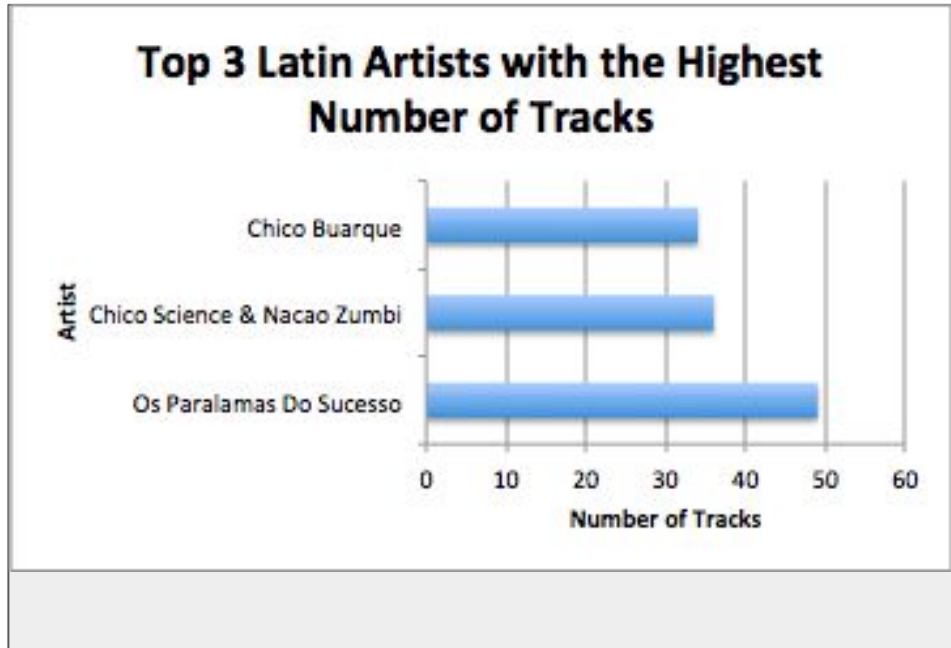

I wanted to know which country spent the most money on tracks from the Electronica/Dance genre.

The answer is Canada, with a total of just under $4.

Interestingly, the six countries listed are the only ones who spent money on the Electronica genre.

Question 3: Which three Latin artists have the most tracks offered in the store?

I wanted to know which three Latin artists had the most tracks available in the store.

Os Paralamas Do Sucesso had the most tracks available at 49, followed by Chico Science & Nacao Zumbi and Chico Buarque with 36 and 24 tracks, respectively.

Question 4: Which customer spent the most money on Classical music?

I wanted to know which customer spent the most money on Classical music.

The answer is Patrick Gray at $23.76.

Interestingly, the next three customers who spent the most on Classical music all spent exactly $3.96.
